

CLEVELAND AT HOME AGAIN. MORELLO HELD FOR MURDER. WHO IS THE MAN FOR FRANCE? THEY CHOKED MRS. CLAUSSSEN.

The President-Elect Arrived in New York This Morning.

Much Benefited Physically by His Shooting Trip in Virginia.

President-elect Cleveland arrived in Jersey City from his shooting trip on an island in Chesapeake Bay at 7:40 o'clock this morning on the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Express of the Pennsylvania Railroad. He came in a private car, belonging to General Superintendent Renfry, of the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad. The train was originally intended to stop at Newark, N. J., but was delayed.

Mr. Cleveland's car, for whom he had tickets from Exeter, Va., last night, appeared in the depot about 7:30 o'clock, having left its distinguished employer's private carriage at the Ferry entrance below, with the exception of a small squad of reporters who were the only ones on hand to meet the President-elect.

As Mr. Cleveland stepped out of the private car he was followed by the colored porter, leading a white and yellow spotted pointer dog. Mr. Cleveland wore a black suit and overcoat and a black derby hat. He carried over his left arm another black top coat, and as he walked briskly down the platform he showed clearly that his shooting excursion had been highly beneficial to him. His face was bronzed and he looked the picture of health.

To an Evening World reporter who greeted him Mr. Cleveland said he had had a very pleasant trip, and although he had killed many birds he did not bring any home with him. Asked his opinion of the effect of the death of Jay Gould, Mr. Cleveland said he had heard of the event and was very sorry, as he knew Mr. Gould quite well.

The President-elect with his valet and the dog entered his carriage, which was drawn by a handsome pair of bays. There was a wait of about five minutes at the ferry slips, and then the carriage drove off, through Broad-street and Hudson street, to 12 West 23d street, where breakfast was waiting for him.

When Bessemer street was reached Mr. Cleveland's carriage drove off, through Bessemer street and Hudson street, to 12 West 23d street, where breakfast was waiting for him.

Mr. Cleveland's private car was attached to the Northern Express at Exeter about 10:30 o'clock last night, and he made the homeward journey by auto.

At the house this forenoon it was said that Mr. Cleveland had not yet returned, as he now has his wife and child at Lakewood. He would remain at home all of today, it was said.

To Answer for the Shooting of Melo in Mulberry Bend.

Murderer's Wife Throws Kisses at Him and Then Faints.

Jealousy or revenge is responsible for another Mulberry Bend tragedy, in which Francesco Melo, a one-armed Italian organ-grinder, was killed, and Carmine Bianchi, a tailor, of 218 Canal street, slightly wounded, at Antonio Morello, a frenzied bushwhacker.

Melo, Bianchi and the wife of Morello, who is alleged, is indirectly responsible for the attack, were in the Tender Police court this morning.

Bianchi's statement accusing Morello of having shot and killed Melo in cold blood was taken, and upon the strength of it the prisoner was held without bail to answer.

Morello is a labor contractor, and he keeps a saloon at 64 Mulberry street, which is tenanted by his wife, Gustavus. The woman is well known in the bend and has a reputation for liberality in dispensing free drinks during her husband's absence.

Yesterday afternoon, it is alleged, Mrs. Morello was accosted on the sidewalk near her home by Melo and Bianchi, who demanded money to buy beer. Upon her refusal Melo addressed unprovoked epithets to her, and concluded by denouncing her as an adulteress.

The men, she said, grabbed her by the arms and handed her over to Bianchi, who demanded money to buy beer.

Antonio, who, it is said, had suspicions of Gustavus's fidelity, said:

"I am the man and prove yourself guilty or else I will put a bullet through your heart."

Intimidated by the man threatening him, Mrs. Morello fled home, when she told her story to her husband.

Morello is twenty-seven years old, with dark hair, eyes, bushy hair and a stubby nose.

Gustavus, his wife, is perhaps thirty-five, and not particularly good looking.

She was accosted in the court, waving and shouting abuse at him, as he was locked into the pen. Then she staggered to a seat and fainted away.

Bishop Wigger Vigorously Attacks the Recalcitrant Priest.

The controversy in progress between Roman Catholic Bishop Wigger, of Newark, and Rev. Father Corrigan, of the Church of Our Lady of Grace, in Hoboken, is daily waxing warmer. Yesterday the Bishop made a public reply to the recalcitrant priest, pronouncing as "an unmixed falsehood" the statement of Father Corrigan that he (the Bishop) and Archbishop Corrigan had not been on speaking terms for years.

Bishop Wigger also stated that as an evidence of his non-support of Cahanism he issued some time ago a remonstrance to the Holy Father declaring it to be unjust to the American episcopate.

Father Corrigan says, in an interview today, that he does not regret the stand he has taken. He insists that he is trying to help and comfort the mother of Ireland, and appeal, as well, to America and the entire church generally in this country. He says he has received letters from people all over the world.

Father Corrigan's trial will take place next week, and it is likely he will appear before the Holy Office, and before the Pope, in Rome, in 1893, has died as a Trappist monk at Aiguebelle.

No Redress for the Englishman.

Bonne, Idaho, Dec. 5.—The War Department will be informed by Gov. Wyllie, of Idaho, that Alexander Chisholm, a British subject, is not entitled to any redress from the United States for the legal indignities inflicted upon him during the Czar D'Almeida's rebellion.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Dec. 5.—The regulation of Gov. Humphreys, of Kansas, on Gov. Chase for the return of Elsworth Wyatt, of the Dalton gang, has arrived. Sheriff Bonham says he will not dare to take Wyatt further than Wichita on account of the certainty he would be lynched if he was taken to the county where the crime was committed.

CUT THE BANKER'S BROTHER.

Naper Would Receive His Money Only from the Debtor.

Franz Nuistria, brother of the Italian banker Ferdinand Nuistria, of 89 Mulberry street, appeared in the Tombs Police Court this morning with his head swathed in bandages to appear against Joseph Naper, a notorious swindler, resident in Brooklyn, who, it is said, shaved his head with a straight razor at his brother's house, yesterday morning.
